Dr. Rajana Balayya, In-charge Department of Economics commenced the session with opening remarks emphasizing the importance of understanding the budgetary process and encouraged active engagement throughout the telecast. As the Union Budget 2024 unfolded, Dr. Balayya provided insightful commentary and analysis on various aspects, including fiscal allocations, taxation policies, and sectoral priorities. This budget focuses on employment, skilling, MSMEs, and the middle class . Attendees were encouraged to take notes and raise questions for discussion during designated breaks. This program was also joined by Sri K. Ananda Rao, Sri Ch Sanjeev Kumar, Sri V.S Saladi, Dr. A Prasad, K.V Ganesh Kumar

The Union Budget 2024–2025 discussion provided a platform for students to discuss and analyze the key highlights of the budget. While the budget has made significant allocations for education, skilling, and youth empowerment, students felt that more emphasis is needed on digital education, research and development, and environmental sustainability. The discussion also highlighted the need for simplification of tax procedures and increased job opportunities in the public sector.

The event concluded as a resounding success, providing valuable insights into the economic roadmap of the country and fostering critical thinking among participants. Dr. Balayya expressed gratitude to the organizers, participants, and technical support team, encouraging continued exploration of economic issues for a better understanding of policy decisions and their implications.
